Using Later File Versions

This basic file has been reduced in size for practical distribution over the internet by email. This was a very significant accomplishment since the unmodified file is 108 Mb and the modified file is less than 8 Mb without reduction of pages or loss of images. But, for some unknown reason this reduction in file size resulted in a fraction of the pages being flipped upside down. Efforts to obtain an explanation and/or prevention of this change from the software supplier have not been successful. Most PDF file viewing software allows rotation of the view as needed while exploring the contents of the file. So, at this time the user has a choice of making a page-by-page adjustment for a fraction of the pages or obtaining the much larger uncompressed file. Sorry for this flaw that is not currently practical to remedy!

There is a tough selection to make even if file size is not an issue. Making the scrapbook text searchable by name, word, or number introduces some of the same annoyance as the size reduction. Some pages/figures are rotated 90 degrees from their best orientation. So, you get your choice.
